

MASTER IN REAL ESTATE DEVELOPMENT

Exploring the relationship between real estate and the making of a city

After the graduation of our 2nd intake of the Master in Real Estate Development program, IE School of Architecture and Design is pleased to communicate the results of its global recruiting outreach of the MRED class of 2018. After a one-year program in which the MRED students have been trained to face global challenges with a solid foundation in the economic, financial, strategic, and legal aspects of real estate development throughout the world, most of them have become professional leaders in the industry.

Thanks to the unique program characteristics, coupled with the excellence of our students and the IE Talent & Careers' efforts, 75% of the MRED alumni have secured a job position three months after graduation.

A high percentage of our students have shown significant levels of international mobility, with more than 50% of them working in countries different than their country of origin. Region-wise, more than 45% of the MRED graduates have secured a job position abroad, Spain being the most popular destination. However, Europe and Latin America have also been target destinations for our Alumni from the class of 2018.

These graduates have already joined the ranks of IE's global network of more than 70,000 Alumni based in more than 100 countries and occupying high-level positions in all types of industries and organizations.

Congratulations to the MRED class of 2018!

IE TALENT & CAREERS

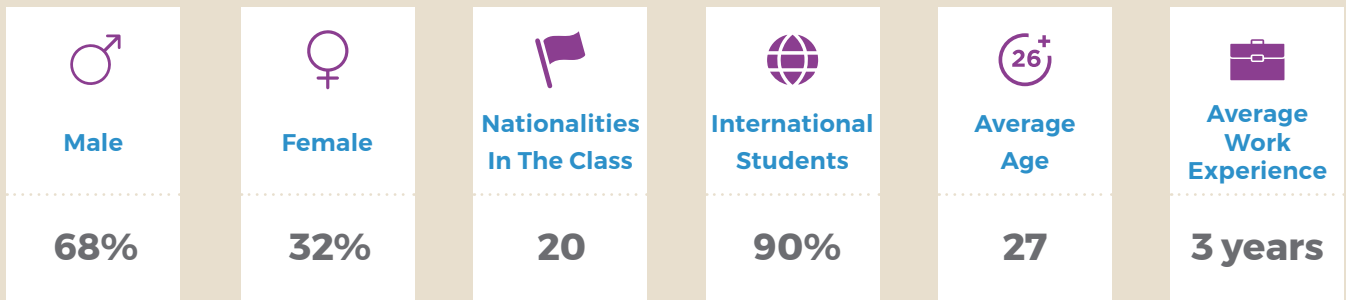

The services provided by IE Talent & Careers have helped to maximize the opportunities for our students to secure jobs in their preferred areas. From the start of the program, each student is assigned to a point-of-contact in IE Talent & Careers who meets with him or her to discuss career aspirations. Through the design of specific Career Development Workshops as part as the MRED curriculum, we ensure our students develop the right skills and insights to be successful in selection processes and in their future job positions. All students are also encouraged to participate in career events that IE Talent & Careers organizes on a monthly-basis.

Finally, the IE Talent & Careers staff collaborates closely with recruiters to learn about the skills and competencies they are seeking to develop in their teams, providing them with the most suitable candidates based on the specific company's criteria.
