

Master in Business for Architecture and Design

IE School of Architecture and Design is pleased to communicate the results of its global recruiting outreach for the Master in Business for Architecture and Design (MBArch) class of 2018. This one-year program, which is now entering its ninth academic year, prepares students to understand the common ground between business and design, and develop a leadership vision that allows them to bring these worlds together cohesively to effect positive change.

Thanks to this program's unique characteristics, our talented student body, and the hard work of IE Talent & Careers, 85% of MBArch graduates secured employment within three months of graduating. More than 50% of students found positions outside of their country of origin, showing significant levels of international mobility among our graduates.

The UAE was the most popular destination for securing a job abroad. However, many 2018 graduates also found positions in Spain and Latin America. These graduates have now joined the ranks of IE's global network, including more than 65,000 alumni based in over 100 countries, holding high-level positions in diverse industries and organizations.

Congratulations MBArch class of 2018!

IE Talent & Careers

The services provided by IE's Talent & Careers have helped maximize our students' opportunities and ability to secure employment in their preferred areas. At the start of the program, each student is assigned an IE Talent & Careers advisor who meets with him or her to discuss career goals and objectives. Through the design of specific career development workshops as part of the MBArch curriculum, we ensure our students develop the skills and insights necessary to be successful in selection processes and throughout their careers. Students are also encouraged to participate in the career events organized by IE Talent & Careers on a monthly basis. Finally, the IE Talent & Careers staff collaborates closely with recruiters to understand the skills and competencies they are seeking for their teams, allowing them to connect the most suitable candidates with a specific company's criteria.
