HERMAN JOHANSEN

MASTER IN INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

The Master in International Relations from IE University has been instrumental in pivoting my career from business towards international affairs and multilateralism. The rigorous curriculum and distinguished faculty professors provided me with a profound understanding of global dynamics and geopolitics, equipping me with the analytical and diplomatic skills necessary for this field. This solid foundation enabled me to excel at the United Nations System Staff College, where I developed innovation programs for various UN agencies, and my recent work with tech-diplomacy at the Royal Norwegian Consulate in San Francisco. IE University's emphasis on practical learning and its vibrant, global network have been crucial in my professional journey, opening doors to opportunities in my prospective fields.
