INTRODUCTION

The IE Talent & Careers department strives to help students carve out their own place in the professional world. By equipping them with the tools, knowledge, advice, and training they need to succeed, they hit the ground running upon graduation. Our Architecture & Design 2024 graduates have joined the inspiring and diverse community of 80,000 IE University alumni spread across a variety of roles, sectors, and regions, with preferences to find roles in Europe and Latin America.

The global real estate market is expected to reach $5388.87 billion in 2026, making it a great time to pave the way into this sector.

Companies need to differentiate themselves through strong employers and a compelling value proposition. ESG elements are more relevant than ever when making operational or investment decisions in real estate development and how it can contribute to a more resilient society. PropTech is revolutionizing the industry, creating a demand for skilled real estate professionals with expertise in areas like data analytics and AI-powered marketing tools.

It is our pleasure to watch our A&D alumni prosper long after they've finished their educational chapter at IE University. We're working relentlessly to position IE University students and alumni in the most exciting roles in the Real Estate, Architecture and Design fields, as well as to offer recruitment solutions to companies seeking the very best talent. We can't wait to continue building on the success of our ever-growing community!

BILLION

in revenue by 2032 is expected for the global "smart city" technology market, according to Cities Today.

$53
TRILLION

projected value of global ESG assets by 2025 (1/3 of global AUM).
