IE HIGH POTENTIAL AWARD

All admitted candidates are automatically considered for this merit-based award.
IE HIGH POTENTIAL AWARD

This award is not application-based. All admitted candidates are automatically considered for this award, with no need to submit IE’s online scholarship application form.

Geographic Area: All regions.
Programs: All programs.
Description: All applicants are automatically considered for this merit-based award and no scholarship application is required. Candidates that are chosen for this award will be notified of the resolution along with their admission offer.

Selection Criteria: The Admissions Department will identify candidates based on the strength and timeliness of their admission application and will nominate them to the Scholarship Committee. Please note, this award is not compatible with other aid potentially granted through IE’s scholarship application process. If a candidate is granted a scholarship through the application process, only the scholarship of higher value will be maintained.

Amount: Amount varies. Several of these partial awards are offered per program and intake and are dependent on the candidate’s strength and available funding at the time of offer.
APPLICATION-BASED SCHOLARSHIPS

Please note that applications submitted prior to the admission will only be reviewed once the applicant is successfully admitted to IE University.
IE SCHOLARSHIP

Application Deadline: Prior to the start of the program.

Geographic Area: All regions.

Programs: All programs.

Description: This scholarship is for candidates with limited financial resources that stand out in the admission process through their admission tests, their academic or professional careers, and/or their international perspective.

Selection Criteria: The merit and potential of the applicant will be assessed, giving priority in this case to economic difficulties in financing the program.

IE³ COLLABORATION AWARD

Application Deadline: Prior to the start of the program.

Geographic Area: All regions.

Programs: All programs.

Description: The IE³ Collaboration Award offers financial aid to aspiring and talented individuals paired with their participation on a project at IE University. Projects may be related to a wide range of areas (admissions, marketing, academia and research, international development, communication, etc.). The Scholarship Committee will assign the project and appoint a supervisor. When assigning the project, the Committee will evaluate the candidate's experience and skills, career aspirations and the areas of interest for collaboration indicated in the scholarship application to best match award holders with available projects. Project assignments are made and notified to award holders following the start of their programs. Irrespective of the project nature, time commitment will not exceed five (5) hours per week.

Selection Criteria: The Scholarship Committee will assess the candidate's performance during the admissions process, along with their academic and/or professional background, motivations, and demonstrated financial need.

Amount: Several scholarships are available, covering up to 40% of the cost of tuition for the program to which the candidate has been admitted.
IE SCHOLARSHIP FOR COUNTRIES IN SPECIAL SITUATIONS

Application Deadline: Prior to the start of the program.

Geographic Area: All regions. Countries affected by special situations.

Programs: All programs.

Description: One of the IE Foundation’s main objectives is to promote the highest standards in education worldwide, recognizing that education is the fastest means for the development of societal welfare. Aware of this fact, the IE Foundation has a special commitment to countries experiencing challenging situations that limit their citizens’ access to education and impede their social development as a result. An economic crisis, severe currency devaluation, and natural disasters, among others, are situations that can directly affect our candidates’ personal career plans and constrain them to put their professional and/or academic development on hold. The IE Foundation reserves a special scholarship fund for candidates who have been directly affected by these circumstances. The fund aims to mitigate the effects of these exceptional situations and thus contribute to the continued development of our candidates’ career plans.

Selection Criteria: The candidate must show that they have been directly affected by an exceptional situation in their country of residence.

Amount: The amount of these scholarships towards tuition fees will depend on the available funding at the time of application, the applicant’s profile, and the specific circumstances supporting the request.
